KIDNAPPER—SLAYER TO GET LIFE TERM
Pasquale Pleads Guilty to Abducting and Killing Blakely Coughlin

Norristown, Pa., Auguste Pasquale confessed kidnapper and slayer of Blakely, thirteen months old child of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Coughlin, was allowed to plead guilty to the charges of second degree murder and kidnapping before Judge Aaron S. Swartz in Criminal Court today. The Judge intimated tonight that on Saturday he would sentence Pasquale to life imprisonment. The parents of the child said they were convinced everything possible had been done to have Pasquale fittingly punished.

Extraordinary precautions are being taken to prevent Pasquale from committing suicide. In his cell this afternoon, after having entered the plea of guilty "the crank" bemoaned the fact that a lifetime of solitary confinement confronted him.

"We wish to enter a plea of guilty to the charges of murder in the second degree and kidnapping," announced J. Aubrey Anderson who had been appointed as counsel for Pasquale.

"What does the defendant say about it? I want to hear from Pasquale himself," said the Judge.

"Stand up there. What do you have to say? Do you plead guilty as charged?"

"Yes sir," replied Pasquale. "Yes, I kidnapped the baby and he died. I didn't mean to kill him. I told them I didn't."

Pasquale stolidly refused to face the parents of the child but he displayed no emotion whatsoever.

Mr. Coughlin testified in detail the circumstances surrounding the kidnapping of the baby on the night of June 2 from the Coughlin summer home. He described the correspondence between himself and the kidnapper, who styled himself "the crank" and told of placing $12,000 ransom money for the return of the child.

All office seekers are willing to put themselves in other places, that makes them fairminded.

NINE NORTH DAKOTA BANKS ARE CLOSED

Depreciated Collateral Values and Farmers' Wheat Strike Given as Reasons.

Nine banks have been closed in North Dakota during the last ten days as a result of the "wheat strike" three of the group of banks affected being closed today.

Depreciated collateral values, coupled with the refusal of the farmers to sell their grain or stock at existing prices; are the elements that have combined to force the suspension of business on the part of the banks.

The three that closed their doors today are the First State Bank of Kill Deer, the Security State Bank of Columbus and the Farmers' State Bank of Bolfield. Prior to today the following banks had been closed: Bantary Bank at Bantary, Beach State at Beach, Security State Bank at New England, Farmers' State Bank at Havelock, the Trolley State Bank at Trolley and the First State Bank at Greene.

Successive crop failures in some portions of the State were pointed to today by F. W. Cathro, Director General of the Bank of North Dakota as being responsible for a series of bank closings.

This year farmers have seen the price of wheat slashed about a dollar a bushel, and they are refusing to sell. The National Grain Growers' Association, the farmers of this and other States, to hold their grain for $3 a bushel. O. E. Loeftus, State Bank Examiner, expressed the hope today that some of the banks that have been closed will be reopened.

He said that deputy examiners in charge of the institutions are making an effort to realize on the banks' assets.

Collateral in the hands of the bank represents values far below the loans in many cases, according to bankers who have investigated the situation. Banks, particularly in the western part of the State, loaned money on chattels, and until livestock values go up again, that class of collateral is doubtful value.

Mary Harclerode Arnold.
Mary Harclerode Arnold was born in Friend's Cove April 22, 1844 and died at her home in Cumberland Valley Nov. 21, 1920 aged 76 years, 6 months, 29 days.

Apr. 15, 1863 she was married to Albin Arnold who preceded her in death 13 years ago. She is survived by a sister, Miss Elizabeth Harclerode who has resided with her for 16 years and the following children: Mrs. A. R. Hanks, Bedford; Mrs. W. S. Howsare, Bedford; Mr. S. H. Replogle, Scalp Level, Collins, Natolus, Iowa; Mrs. P. W. Swartz of Oklahoma, Ralph of Philadelphia, Roy of Oklahoma and Chester of Altoona.

Her parents were Philip and Sophia Harclerode.

She was confirmed in the Reformed church in her girlhood, but after her marriage united with the Methodist church of which she was a faithful member until her death. She was highly esteemed by neighbors and friends and was a very devoted mother. For the past year she suffered greatly. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. S. J. Pittenger of Wolfburg, and were held in the Methodist church in Cumberland Valley at 11 A. M. Nov. 24 and remains laid to rest beside her husband.

We Thank Thee, Lord!

"For all thy ministries—
For morning mist and gently falling dew,
For summer rains, for winter ice and snow;
For whispering wind and purifying storm;
For the soft clouds that show the tender blue;
For the forked flash and long, tumultuous roll;
For mighty rains that wash the dim earth clean;
For the sweet promise of the seven-fold bow;
For the soft sunshine and the still, calm night;
For dimpled laughter of soft summer seas;
For laticed splendor of the sea-borne moon;
For gleaming sands and granite-fronted cliffs;
For flying spume and waves that whip the skies;
For rushing gale and for the great, glad calm;
For Might so mighty and for Love so true,
With equal mind,
We thank thee, Lord!"

THE DAY OF THANKS

LOADED with all the goods the living cost allows, the home boards of the day of thanks will give full witness to the fact that the passing years do not permit to grow flaccid the long-established custom of the land. Thanksgiving Day has yet full flavor of the day when first observed upon the bleak coast where the Pilgrim fathers closed their voyage amid the fumes so redolent of cheer and peace and the sweet concord of home. Will seem to fashion forth the features dear to the ones who at that board in other years were grouped. Memory that never lays aside attachments of the past will vivify the recollections of the ones whose passing meant constriction of the group, but cheer will be no less sincere because the pathos note is struck in token of mortality that time insures. From coast to coast, amid the mountains of the nearby range amid the Rockies lifting high their peaks where placid lie the meadows by the brook, and in the tropic Southlands and the coast that borders the Pacific will be found the units of the nation's strength and grace the circles of the home, with sweet content as savor for the simple heartfelt feasts. In many places strange and mid the scene of desolation and of solitude the and dinner will be given thought.

Wilson's Words Immortal says Maximilian Harden

"Only One Conqueror's Work Will Endure, Wilson's Thought," German Asserts—Morally and Militarily He Ended the War," and Echoes His Words Aroused Will Endure.

BERLIN, Nov. 21.—"Immortality is as certain for Woodrow Wilson's speeches as for the meditations of the Roman Emperor Marcus Aurelius, who also stopped halfway up to the heights."

So declares Maximilian Harden, the famous editor of the Zukunft, while fervently eulogizing President Wilson on the occasion of the first meeting of the League of Nations. Herr Harden, who is about the only German in Germany whose faith in Mr. Wilson is unshaken, says too:

"One who sees this man, the only man amid a hail of arrows learns to doubt whether his work was as bad as the chorus of hate and abuse now proclaims. When and where did high endeavor attain the place on the first attempt. No saint, wise man, warrior or statesman ever did."

"Wilson not only spoke before he felt and thought as before him never did the head of a great state. The poorest and the mightiest harkened with beated breath to his word which gave to the war a content and a goal and which for a hour of humanity appeared to break down all class barriers."

Morally and militarily he ended the war. That Wilson existed and that he aroused an echo which roaring cannons could not drown remains the most beautiful, the only great experience of the war."

"As the Roman Marcus Aurelius stands at the exit of antiquity, so this American stands on the threshold of a new world. He has painted it, out of his prophetic vision. Another will build it."

"The parchment of Versailles begins to turn yellow. Only one conqueror's work will endure—Wilson's thought."

Many Senators Invited To Confer With Harding on return from Panama

Both Democrats and Republicans Will Discuss League of Nations

Washington, Nov. 22.—Senators Reed of Missouri, Pomerene of Ohio and Shields of Tennessee, all Democrats, are among those invited by President-elect Harding to confer with him on the League of Nations issue and other matters after his return from Panama according to Harry M. Daugherty Mr. Harding's pre-convention campaign manager, who was in Washington today. Others asked to offer suggestions to the president-elect Mr. Daugherty said, include Senators Borah, Johnson of California, Lodge, Knox, Poindexter and Mr. Daugherty thought Herbert Hoover.

Informal conference at Marion probably will begin about Dec. 10, Mr. Daugherty said, adding that no definite date has been set for any one to go there.

"Some probably will go singly, while others may go in groups," said Mr. Daugherty. There will be no pre-arranged schedule as is when different ones are to appear."

The president-elect plans to spend only one day in Washington after returning from Panama via Newport News, and will go immediately to Marion, Mr. Daugherty announced. He said Mr. Harding expected to resign from the senate soon after Jan. 1, when Gov.-elect Davis of Ohio takes office. Mr. Daugherty predicted that Senator-elect Willis, a Republican, would be named to succeed Harding.

Questioned by newspapermen Mr. Daugherty refused to discuss cabinet possibilities.

If you are offered a college presidency don't accept unless you know all about athletics. That seems to be the qualifications these days.

PRESIDENT HOPES TO READ MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

President Wilson who has been working on his message to Congress hopes to be able to read his message to Congress instead of typewriting it and having it read by another person. He expects to walk into the Congressional halls but does not expect to stand to read the message.

He has been walking more the last few days than usual and does not depend on the wheel chair as before though Dr. Grayson does not want him to exert too much. His health is improving and he will no doubt be enabled to attend the inaugural ceremonies of President-Elect Harding on March 4th.

Thanksgiving Exercises

On Wednesday afternoon the Public Schools will celebrate the Three Hundredth Anniversary of the Landing of the Pilgrims in formal exercises participated in by all the grades and the High School. All patrons of the schools are urged to attend these exercises.

Immediately after the exercises there will be a conference with patrons of the first four grades. The purpose of this conference is to acquaint parents with the problems of the pupils of these grades and to enlist their cooperation in the solution of them. This is the first of a series of conferences to be called during the year.

There will be no school on Thursday and Friday of this week.

THANKSGIVING SERMON

America's Debt to the Pilgrims
"Be thankful unto Him, and bless His name."—Ps 100: 4.

Citizens of Bedford: We are gathered today, in response to a call by our President, to a service of praise and thanksgiving, in calling us together by proclamation, our chief magistrate has followed an annual custom which has been observed without a break since the year 1863, when President Lincoln summoned the nation to such a service because of the signal victories for the North of that year.

Previous to that time, there was only an occasional day set aside for national thanksgiving, the first one being by President George Washington, who appointed Thursday, February 19th, 1795, "as a day of public thanksgiving and prayer"; and gave as special reasons for his action: "Our exemption hitherto from foreign war, an increasing prospect of the continuance of that exemption, the great degree of internal tranquility we have enjoyed, the recent confirmation of that tranquility by the suppression of an insurrection which so wantonly threatened it, (the Whiskey Insurrection, which brought him to Bedford in 1794), the happy course of our public affairs in general, the unexampled prosperity of all classes of our citizens."

But the first thanksgiving day was observed nearly two centuries earlier, namely by the Pilgrims of Plymouth colony, in the fall of 1621 and their descendants in New England kept up its observance locally, more or less regularly, until it became in 1863 what it now is a national custom and an annual holiday.

In view of the fact that we, thus owe its origin to the Pilgrims; and that the nation is celebrating this year the three hundredth anniversary of the landing of these settlers on this continent, I have thought it most appropriate to present to you the subject announced, Our Debt to the Pilgrim Fathers.

One of the unique features of this day is that we are called to worship by our national executive. In other words, the state, or the government has issued a summons to the church. Has any government the right to tell the church what to do, or not to do? As citizens of the United States, we have come to this service partly because we desire to express publicly our thanksgiving to our gracious heavenly Father for the blessings of the year, about to close, and, partly, out of respect for the call of our national magistrate; and the desire to encourage and support the national custom. But all of us came willingly. Had the President ordered us to gather here, we would have defied him; or if he had stated just how we were to worship when assembled, we would also have acted in the matter just as we pleased; and in defense of our nation would likely quote the first amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which reads: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." This amendment is our guaranty of religious liberty. This with the possession of the vote by all citizens and the privilege granted all of having a part by vote in the choice of almost all our officers combine to make this nation all that the name America has meant to the oppressed of other lands; and, in these spheres of religion and government, all that it has meant to us who have been rejoicing in our noble birthright. To the first introduction into America of the principle of this amendment we are indebted to the Pilgrims of Plymouth. And the other settlers believed it they came later, and most of them failed to practice it. Succeeding generations have not approved of all that these people believed and did. But this unique glory no man taketh from them.

This acknowledgment deprives us of this state of having first place among those who have contributed to this religious freedom. We are not about to deny, however, that we had a share, along with others, in this glorious achievement. In fact, Pennsylvania has been the most consistent of all the colonies in this regard. To this Colony Penn invited all people and they came—Lutherans, German Reformed, Scotch-Irish Presbyterians, Moravians, Mennonites, Dunkers, Seventh Day Adventists, Quakers, Swenckfeldians, etc., and this colony never passed any law to interfere with the coming or the staying here of any religious denomination or sect and has always given everybody a vote irrespective of his religious creed. On the contrary the Puritans of Massachusetts colony compelled every one to pay a church tax and forbade the Quakers on penalty of death and only by law forbade the state to interfere in religious matters. In 1833 Puritan Connecticut also had a universal church tax; and not until a hundred years later did that state allow each to pay this to his own denomination and not to the Puritan church, this privilege being granted to the Episcopalians first in 1727 and to Baptists and Quakers in 1729; and finally in 1818, the law was passed forbidding the state to interfere in religious matters. In New York the early settlers tried to keep out all churches but the Dutch Reformed Baptist Rhode Island did not grant the right to vote to Roman Catholics until 1794. Catholic Maryland outnumbered by Protestant settlers disfranchised the Catholics from 1665 to 1865. Episcopal Virginia fined the Baptists 2,000 pounds of tobacco for a refusal to have their children baptised made it a death penalty for a

"Think and Thank" Suggested Motto for Nation Today

"Think and Thank" was the motto upon the family crest of the great Hebrew philanthropist Sir Moses Montefiore. It would be an appropriate armorial motto for America today. These two little English words, differing in a single vowel, were originally identical. In the Anglo-Saxon tongue, a "thank" was a "think." Thanking comes from thinking, and thankfulness from thoughtfulness and thanks giving from thought-giving. This will be a season of unusual thanksgiving—for we are made to think as we have not been wont to think. It will be a very selfish soul that this season fails to think of the sorrows and the sufferings of others.

Look back at that first American Thanksgiving. Strange skies, sparse settlements, sparse larder, savage enemy, but thankful spirit! What makes the memory of the Pilgrim so precious? His thankfulness! As Howell puts it:

"It is no improper comparison that a thankful heart is like a box of precious ointment which keeps the smell long after the thing is spent."

The Pilgrim and the Puritan have passed on but they have left us a precious possession—a Thanksgiving day and the Thanksgiving spirit. There was the indomitable spirit because they "thanked God and took courage." They landed undesignedly on a "rock-bound wintry strand," but they thanked God and took courage. They found no gold, but they did find the golden grain of a first harvest and they thanked God and took courage. They found a rude wilderness, but they thanked God and took courage and furrows were turned and towns were built and cities grew and factories flourished and culture developed and instead of a wilderness a garden blossomed and the fragrance of their memory still survives and the spirit of their grace still inspires.

Marriage is a tie but it may be just a ship knot.

The "U.S." Walrus

Three reasons why you'll like the new "U.S." Walrus

- 1—Can be cleaned instantly
- 2—Slips on over your leather shoes
- 3—Fleece-lined—warm and dry

NO more dirty, mud-clogged overshoes! Here's an overshoe that you can clean instantly—no matter how dirty it is! Dash a pail of water over it—or hold it right under a faucet—and every trace of mud washes quickly off its smooth rubber surface.

When you have to go out for wood, or to milk, or for any of those dozens of odd jobs around the place—you want an overshoe that you can slip on and off in a hurry. Here it is—buckle it on in a second—unbuckle it and push it off with your toe when you're through.

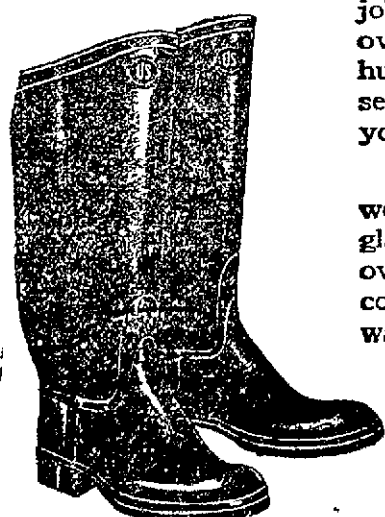

Ever work on a job all day long with wet, cold feet? If you have, you'll be glad of the soft, fleecy lining in this new overshoe that keeps your feet warm and comfortable. Dry, too—it's absolutely watertight.

Built for the hardest wear

Made by the oldest and largest rubber manufacturer in the world, the U. S. Walrus is built for the roughest wear. Its sole consists of heavy layers of the finest rubber. All other points of strain are specially reinforced.

Ask your dealer to show you the new U. S. Walrus. Look over the rest of this U. S. line—boots, bootees, arctics—whatever you need. Every one is backed by over half a century of experience. The rubber comes from our own plantations—the whole process of manufacture is supervised by experts.

Always look for the U. S. Seal—it means solid wear and long service for your money.

"U. S." Boots—Reinforced where the wear is hardest. Made in all sizes and styles—Hip, Half-Hip and Knee, in red, black, and white.

Fordson

TRADE MARK

FARM TRACTOR

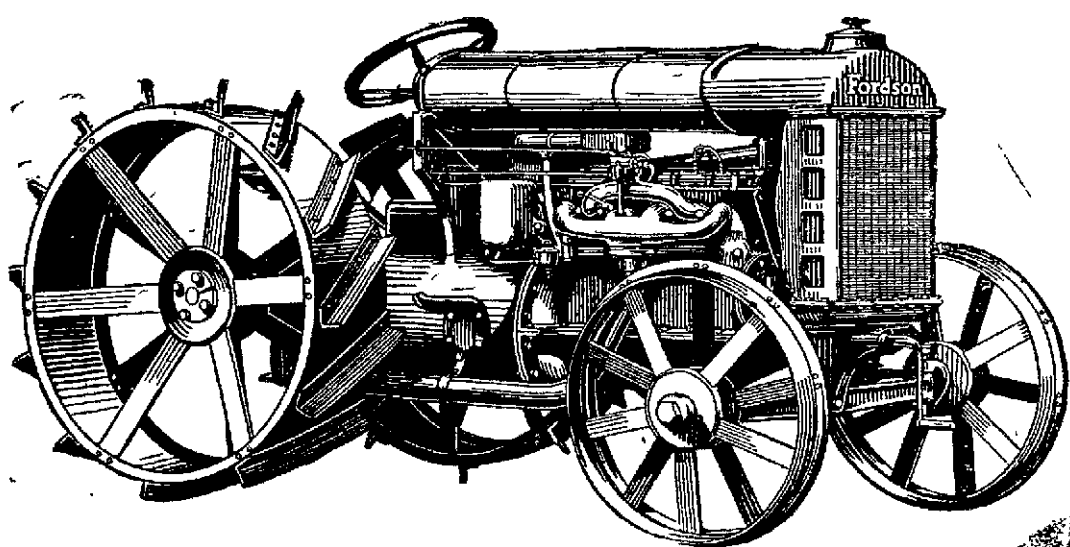

More than 100,000 Fordson tractors have been sold to farmers in the United States. They are helping those farmers do more and better work in less time and at less cost. North, East, South, West—everywhere the Fordson has proven itself a money-maker and a real necessity to the farmer. Besides it is helping mightily to solve the labor problem.

These one hundred thousand and more practical farmers have affirmed the economy—the exceptionally low fuel and operating cost—of the Fordson; its time and labor-saving qualities and its ability to increase production. The Fordson was built to be the most economical tractor; it is compact and devoid of excessive weight. And it is built of the same strong iron and steel as is the Ford car.

Winter or bad weather does not hinder the Fordson's usefulness. Day or night—twenty-four hours a day if you choose—you can utilize the Fordson.

Only so many Fordsons are allotted this territory. Orders are being filled in sequence—first come first served. Let us have yours now.

There's a practical use for the Fordson every day of the year. Let's tell you. Come in and have a tractor talk. Give us the chance to make a demonstration on your own farm.

BANANA DISHES.

The wholesome banana lends itself to a variety of dishes, enhancing the flavor and adding to the nutritive value.

Banana and Prune Jelly.
Soak one-half pound of prunes in water overnight; cook until tender in the same water. Drain, remove the stones and cut in pieces. Soak half a box of gelatin in one-half cupful of cold water; add enough boiling water to the hot prune liquid to make a pint; pour over the soaked gelatin and strain the whole over four bananas, cut in cubes. Heat to the scalding point, add three-quarters cupful of sugar, three-quarters cupful of lemon juice, pieces of prunes, a little grape juice; stir until the sugar is dissolved. Turn into a mold and set aside to become firm. When cold, turn from the mold and serve with whipped cream.

Escalloped Bananas.
Stir one-quarter of a cupful of butter into a pint of bread crumbs. Sprinkle the bottom of a pudding dish with the crumbs, cover with sliced bananas and sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Repeat the layers until the crumbs are used. Add a little lemon juice or hot water, cover and bake 25 minutes, then remove the cover and brown. Serve as a dessert, with cream and sugar.

Fruit Punch.
Boil together four cupfuls of sugar and four cupfuls of water fifteen minutes. When cool, add the juice of four lemons and six oranges, the pulp of four bananas, a pint of strawberry juice and a cupful of fresh tea; let stand on ice until serving time, then add six quarts of ice water, a pint or two of apollinaris water. Add two bananas sliced in one-quarter-inch slices.

Compote of Bananas With Orange Sirup.
Prepare a thick sirup of orange juice, rind and sugar. Cool and pour over a pyramid of peeled bananas. Sprinkle with chopped pistachio nuts; chill and serve.

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 28

HOW JESUS THE KING WAS RECEIVED.

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 11 and 12.
GOLDEN TEXT—Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.—Matt. 11:28.
ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Luke 7:18-35; 10:13-35, 21, 22; 11:14-26, 29, 32.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Kind Deeds of Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Friends and Enemies of Jesus.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Choosing Jesus as Our Teacher.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Response of Men to the Ministry of Jesus.

The teacher should keep in mind the progress of thought in Matthew and present these lessons accordingly. In chapters 5 to 7 we have the laws of the kingdom; chapters 8 and 9, the mighty works to demonstrate the King's ability to administer the affairs of the kingdom; chapter 10, the propagation of the kingdom through the sending forth of the twelve; chapters 11 and 12, how the kingdom was received.

I. Four Classes of Hearers (ch. 11).

1. Perplexed hearers like John the Baptist (11:2-11). John believed that Jesus was the Christ (v. 2), but was somewhat perplexed as to the manner of the establishment of the kingdom. In the Old Testament predictions there were two lines in the Messianic prophecies; the one set forth Christ as the suffering one, as in Isaiah 53, and the other, as the invincible Conqueror, as in Isaiah 63. Indeed, in Isaiah 60:1, 2 we have the two adventures in one view (see Matt. 3:10-12). He said that the ax is laid unto the root of the trees and that there was to be a separation of the chaff from the wheat and a burning of the chaff, but now the King was occupied merely with the opening of the eyes of the blind, etc. John saw Christ as the one who would remove the sins of the people by the shedding of his blood (John 1:29), but he failed to see the interval between the time of his sufferings and the time of his triumph. Since this interval between the first and second comings—the nature of the age in which we live—was not known until Christ revealed it in the parables of the thirteen chapters, we do not wonder at John's perplexity. John's faith was not failing him, neither did he send this deputation to Jesus for the sake of his disciples. He was a true prophet and a faithful man, but he was perplexed.

2. Violent hearers (11:12-19). These were willing to receive the kingdom according to their own way, but were unwilling to conform to its laws. Their ears were closed to everything but their own carnality. They would not repent when called upon to repent by John, nor rejoice when called upon by Christ to rejoice (vv. 17-19).

3. The stout-hearted unbelievers (11:20-24). In Chorazin, Bethsaida, and Capernaum, Christ had done most of his mighty works, but the people deliberately set their hearts against him and his message. It was not for lack of knowledge and opportunity that they were unsaved, but for their purposeful rejection of Christ. Tyre and Sidon, Sodom and Gomorrah were filled with immoral profligates and idolaters, but they will be more tolerably dealt with in the day of judgment than those who wilfully reject Christ.

4. Hearers who are babes in spirit (11:25-30). There were some among those who heard Jesus with childlike faith, who believed that Christ was the Messiah, and they opened their hearts to receive him. Christ invites those who have the babe-like spirit to come to him, and to all who come to him and receive him he gives rest.

II. The Antagonism of the Kingdom. (ch. 12).

In chapter 11 we saw the shameful indifference of the Jews to their King. In this chapter we see positive and bitter antagonism manifesting itself against him. They are not only without a heart for him, but do their best to destroy him. The immediate occasion of their wicked determination was Christ's relation to the Sabbath. Because the hungry disciples plucked corn and Jesus healed the withered hand on the Sabbath day, they sought to destroy him. They accused him of being in league with the Devil. Jesus with unanswerable logic showed them that they had blasphemed against the Holy Ghost, and were therefore guilty of an unpardonable sin. They did not deny the miracle but sought to account for it without owning him as the Messiah.

What Tenderness Is.
Tenderness is the extreme susceptibility of the softer emotions and passions. It implies the refinement of pity, the sensitive delicacy of love, the culture of sympathy, and the most complete embodiment of a fervent, deep-seated, and impulsive gentleness.—A. M. A. W.

Apply Discipline.
Restrain all the senses under the severity of discipline, and give not thyself over to foolish mirth.—Thomas a Kempis.

Thanksgiving Hymn Well Liked at Birth But Now Forgotten

The first presidential Thanksgiving proclamation was that of President Washington in 1789 on the occasion of the adoption of the Constitution, the day, curiously enough, being November 26—the date of celebration of 1863. This latter was the real forerunner of our national Thanksgiving day. Occasional and special times of thanksgiving had often been appointed by different Presidents, but the year 1863, famous for its decisive national victories, marked also the beginning of the annual series of Thanksgiving days.

The great victories of Gettysburg and Vicksburg were really the cause of Lincoln's proclamation, and his example has been followed by all his successors until the annual festival has become one of our national institutions.

The proclamation of 1863 was remarkable as the first of a series, extending now over fifty years. It was also noticeable because it was the occasion of a thanksgiving hymn by the famous Reverend Doctor Muhlenberg of St. Luke's hospital, New York city. He is well known as the author of the familiar hymn, "I Would Not Live Away," and a poet of no small repute. Mr. Lincoln's glowing words met his eye and struck a responsive chord in his heart. A noble Thanksgiving hymn was the result, a hymn which at the time was often sung, but is now comparatively forgotten. It was published with appropriate music, and even yet is suitable for use on similar occasions.

The hymn contains nine stanzas, with chorus, and takes up in order the various causes for thanksgiving mentioned in Mr. Lincoln's proclamation. The original title was "Give Thanks All Ye People," the first verse being as follows:

Give thanks, all ye people, give thanks to the Lord,
Alleluia of freedom with joyful accord;
Let the East and the West, North and South roll along,
Sea, mountain and prairie, one thanksgiving song.

Chorus.
Give thanks, all ye people, give thanks to the Lord,
Alleluia of freedom, with joyful accord.

As the hymn was suggested by Mr. Lincoln's call upon the nation to give thanks, Doctor Muhlenberg spoke of it as "The President's Hymn," but would not permanently offer such a title without Mr. Lincoln's approval. Mr. Robert B. Minturn, a prominent member of Doctor Muhlenberg's congregation, was greatly pleased with the poem, and sent a copy to the President, with whom he was personally acquainted, asking permission to name the hymn as the author desired. Mr. Lincoln telegraphed back: "So let it be."

In July, 1863, Dr. Horace Bushnell published in "Hours at Home" an article attacking the well-known hymn, "America," as an unworthy and really humiliating effusion—a political anthem. Doctor Bushnell thus refers to Doctor Muhlenberg's production: "The hymn and air that were given to the public by Doctor Muhlenberg a short time ago appear to have missed the accident of being fairly born, and for that reason have not succeeded. The want of good accident here is fatal, but the hymn has real merit. It was too long and included three or four verses that could have been omitted with advantage. Otherwise it might have stuck and would have had a fair chance of success; for the music, which we know only by the eye, and never heard in a public performance, appeared to have a look of promise."

The next known reference to this hymn occurs in connection with the observance of the fiftieth convocation of the University of Illinois, on November 20, 1913. The Alumni Quarterly says: "Touches of the unusual were added to the exercises by the singing of a forgotten hymn, dedicated to Lincoln in 1863 by Reverend Doctor Muhlenberg. The hymn, which had not previously been sung in public, was discovered by Professor Dodge in a contemporary issue of the New York Tribune."

Preparing for Thanksgiving.

People who are searching for health, who have either chronic or acute conditions, and have tried medicine, surgery, osteopathy, electrotherapy, Hydro-Therapy and various other treatments with apparently no beneficial results will readily recognize the fact that their last hope lies in CHIROPRACTIC, the great new natural science which will remove the cause of disease and permit nature to restore dissipated and inactive tissues and organs to their normal functioning ability.

That is what thousands are now saying for CHIROPRACTIC, the great DRUGLESS method of alleviating physical distress.

The Chiropractor with an expert knowledge of the human anatomy, traces your incoordination to the spine where he finds the Cause, due to subluxations (displacement) of the vertebrae (small bones) of the spine, commonly called backbone, which results in impinging (pinching) the nerves emitting therefrom and extending to and controlling all of the wonderfully complicated but systematically arranged working parts of that great machine known as man.

Having traced these nerves to the spine and determined the misplaced bones which are causing the impingement of nerves, thereby preventing the normal flow of Mental Impulses, which emanate in the Brain, to the effected parts, then with His Bare Hands and properly and scientifically placed on these bones, one at a time, will adjust into place with not even the least distress to the patient, who is comfortably reclined on an especially constructed table.

Vanishing of the disease will then begin with normal functioning as a final result.

Therefore, after two years of strenuous work at the famous Palmer School of Chiropractic, Chiropractic's Fountain Head Davenport, Ia. I am back to Bedford Co.; to prove that the most obstinate cases will yield to Chiropractic Adjustments.

The Old Reliable

Lewis Turner.

Lewis Turner, a well known farmer of the "Dry Ridge" section of Bedford County, died of pneumonia at his late home, on Tuesday morning Nov. 23rd. His funeral will be held at ten o'clock Thursday morning Nov. 25th in the Dry Ridge Reformed Church and will be conducted by Rev. J. Albert Eyer of Bedford. He leaves a family doubly bereaved because of the fact that the wife and mother died just last May.

Abe Smithers who has recently moved to Salemville from over about Rocky Ford made application for membership in the Salemville Fiddling Band and got black-balled by this staunch musical organization. It got whispered around that Abe did not chew tobacco and it is believed this had something to do with his being barred from the Band.

PENNSYLVANIA STATE ITEMS

Harrisburg.—Twenty-seven more arrests were ordered in the state bureau of food crusade against stale and storage eggs being sold as fresh, making 129 to date. The new arrests are in Beaver, Northumberland and Lawrence counties. The crusade will continue until the first of the year. More than 237 samples of eggs bought as fresh have been analyzed.

Uniontown.—Efforts of Miss Bertha Johnson, who gave her address as "Little Washington," to sell a fancy bowl of gold fish, resulted in her arrest and confinement in the city police station. Bertha, who declared she was "drugged," said she did not know where she obtained the fish, nor did she remember attempting to sell them on the streets and in local restaurants. The police are trying to locate the owner of the fish and the place where Bertha obtained what was responsible for her condition.

Pittsburgh.—The $1,000,000 building fund campaign of Duquesne University has been oversubscribed, according to official announcement made here. The campaign started November 6, and two of the largest subscriptions received were for $50,000 each. A feature of the campaign was the organization of a Caneyin $1000 club in honor of Bishop Caneyin, of the Pittsburgh Diocese of the Catholic church. More than 200 members joined the club, each pledging $1000 to the fund.

West Chester.—In an effort to locate for the Chester County Historical Society the exact spot in which ten or more soldiers of Washington's army who were killed in the battle of the Brandywine were buried a search has been in progress in the cemetery connected with Birmingham Friends Meeting, south of West Chester, and it resulted in locating the graves, which will be marked by the society with a handsome bronze tablet in the near future. The bodies apparently were in one trench about twenty feet in length and five in depth, nearly all of which has been revealed and examined by Albert B. Huey and others interested in the work. Portions of bones, buttons, buckles, cloth and other things have been exhumed, proving the bodies to have been those of men who fell in the battle where General Lafayette was wounded, on September 11, 1777. The trench is being filled and a base laid for the erection of the tablet.

Uniontown.—Deaf and dumb and suffering with a malignant case of diphtheria, Eva Walker entered the police station while hearings were in progress and on a piece of paper wrote that, if she were not given relief at once, she intended to commit suicide. A physician was called and the woman's illness diagnosed. She wrote on a pad she carried that she had applied to several relief societies, but had been informed they had no room for her, sending her to the police. Even though her condition was alarming, she mingled with pedestrians on Main street and in different stores in the city.

Marietta.—John A. Myers, a High Mount farmer, was caught in the belt of a gasoline engine while husking corn and badly injured, one finger of the left hand being severed. A few hours later his son, Charles, was caught by the same machinery and lost part of a finger from the left hand.

McAllisterville.—When Henry Bay, aged sixty-two, and his fourteen-year-old son, fell thirty feet from a roof, the father sustained a fractured leg, but the son escaped with slight bruises and scratches.

Bethlehem.—At a meeting of trustees of Lehigh University the resignation of Dr. H. S. Drinker as president was finally accepted as of December 31. Dr. Drinker resigned last June, but consented to occupy the position until his successor was chosen. So far this has not been done. It is understood that Dr. Drinker and his family will take up their residence in one of Philadelphia's suburbs.

Granville.—When a Pennsylvania railroad train killed a $300 horse, the property of George Knox here, the horse was in company with an old mule that was not worth $10. The two wandered from a pasture and while the horse cavorted up and down the track, the wise old mule kept out of harm's way.

Brownsville.—The fire in the Simpson mine of the Union-Connellsville Coal company has been continually spreading and is now beyond control, it was announced. Representatives of the bureau of mines and employees fought fruitlessly since the fire was discovered. Dense volumes of smoke and flame pour out from the main and air shafts and all attempts to enter have been futile. Mine experts on the scene state that the fire probably will burn for an indefinite period.

Lewistown.—A bobcat, four feet long, was shot by O. A. Pelter, driver of a bus, on Seven Mountains, between Lewistown and Bellefonte.

Hazleton.—When his automobile skidded over a mountain embankment, Walter Farringer, mine superintendent, escaped with slight bruises.

Altoona.—Taking $355, a diamond ring and stepkin from a safe at Nicholas Mill's confectionery, the thief carefully closed and locked the safe before leaving.

Altoona.—Two inches of snow fell here with apples still on the trees and corn not yet husked.

FATALITIES IN BEDFORD COUNTY AND IN THE STATE

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 23.—Bedford County industrial workers were victims of five fatal accidents during the first nine months of this year, according to figures announced by D. Clifford B. Connelly, Commissioner of the Department of Labor and Industry. The report was compiled by the Bureau of Inspection. During October one fatality was reported to the State authorities from this county.

Throughout the State there were 1940 accidents from January 1 to November 1. Seven hundred and seventy-five of them were suffered by miners, 733 by persons employed in industrial plants, and 432 by public service workers. The State's fatality roll reached 188 in October, according to the reports received by the Department of Labor and Industry.

PEOPLE WILL HAVE TO CONSULT AUTHORITIES IN ORDER TO BUILD HEREAFTER

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 24.—After many years of discussion and delay, Pennsylvania is soon to have a building code. Through the efforts of Dr. Clifford B. Connelly, Commissioner of the Department of Labor and Industry, a committee of ten structural engineers, architects and building experts have started a draft standard code to regulate the building industry of this state. They expect to adopt regulations that will protect human life and make safe buildings of all sorts that are constructed in the future in Pennsylvania.

The State's leading builders and architects have agreed that the proposed building code shall be drafted and administered by the Industrial Board, a division of the Department of Labor and Industry. The Board has been authorized to formulate a skeleton code covering the construction of assembly, residence and business structures.

After the Board's code has been drafted it will be submitted to Commissioner Connelly's committee of ten for consideration. Later it will be reviewed by sub-committees of experts on the construction of hotels, theatres, apartment houses, office buildings, colleges, etc. Public hearings will be held by the Industrial Board before the final adoption of the code, so that the general public may have a voice in the proposed rulings.

Although first, second and third-class cities, and some boroughs, have already adopted their own codes, it is probable that the Industrial Board's code will have State-wide application, but its administration will be placed in the hands of local authorities in these communities. In towns and cities that have no qualified building inspectors, however, the enforcement of the code is to rest with the Commissioners of the Department of Labor and Industry.

Commissioner Connelly is being assisted by the following committee in the drafting of the new building code:

James C. Cronin and Fred J. Hartman of the State Industrial Board; D. Knickerbocker Boyd, of Philadelphia; Edwin Clark, chief of the Bureau of Building Inspection, Philadelphia; S. A. Dies, chief of the Bureau of Building Inspection, Pittsburgh; Bernard O'Rourke, Inspector of Buildings, Wilkes-Barre; C. G. Dannels, Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh; C. T. Ingham, Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce; John Molitor (Chief of the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce Bureau of Housing, State Department of Health; Edgar A. Weimer, consulting engineer, Lebanon; B. F. Welsh, Pennsylvania Building Trades Pittsburgh; and G. H. Danford, Pittsburgh Building Code Commission.

WOMAN GIVES UP BUSHELS OF CASH TAKEN FROM MAIL

Thousands of $10 Bills Found in Chicken Coop—Funds Recovered $1,500,000.

The woman in the case of the robbery of the treasure car of the Transcontinental fast fall Saturday night has been found after five days of hard work by fifty detectives and Secret Service workers. Mrs. T. A. Daly of Council Bluffs is the woman. She is the wife of T. A. Daly under arrest in connection with the robbery.

The first important development to follow the discovery of Mrs. Daly was the recovery of three bushels of $10 bills. The money was hidden in sacks out in the little kitchen of the Daly home. Mrs. Daly says it was put there by S. A. Reed, a roomer at the Daly house. Reed is one of those under arrest and has confessed.

The three bushels of $10 bills are estimated to amount to between $300,000 and $400,000. It has not yet been counted. Bankers say the bills will amount to probably $400,000. These bills are in packages of $1000 each, tied up in bundles just as they came from some bank. Officers have no information as to where they came from, or if they have the information they are not making it public.

Now Hunt for Aviator

A general alarm has been sent out by the police for Lieut. Keith Collins, formerly an aviator in the army winner of a number of war honors and decorations. Lieut. Collins is an engineer and is said to work for the Union Pacific Railroad. He resides near the Daly home with his mother.

According to the story told by Mrs. Daly, Lieut. Collins drove the taxi the night of the robbery. His share of the loot was $100,000 she said. He packed the bills in suitcases and early Sunday morning left Council Bluffs, according to the story.

Another development which followed the discovery of Mrs. Daly was a search for $1,000,000 in securities which the young robbers are thought to have hidden somewhere near their homes. A batch of probably fifty operatives are taking part in this search, and everything within a radius of a mile is being searched. Outgarages of all kinds, chicken coops, garages, and even piles of rubbish.

Hunt Treasure in Ground

In the back yard of the Poffenbarger home a freshly dug hole was found. It was large enough to put a barrel into. The Poffenbargers said it was dug so they could set a rat trap in it.

Poffenbarger is one of the men under arrest. He has confessed that it was he who broke the seal to the car and that he entered the car and threw the sacks out. He is also the young man who confessed to having burned $800,000 in Liberty bonds because he feared to attempt to dispose of them.

H. A. Reed, boarder at the Daly home, is the latest one of the robbers to confess. He was arrested early this morning. He was implicated in the robbery by one of those who confessed yesterday.

Four confessions have now been secured. These were made by Mearl Phillips, Orville Phillips, Fred Poffenbarger and H. A. Reed. T. A. Daly is under arrest, but has not confessed.

Nearly a half million dollars in cash has been recovered and bonds to the value of more than one million have been found. The robbers confessed to having burned $800,000 in Liberty bonds. The officers are seeking a coach of possibly $1,000,000 in bonds which they believe to be hidden somewhere in Council Bluffs.

Altogether the robbery was the greatest ever staged in the United States, whether mail or train. Postal inspectors today freely admitted that the estimate of $3,500,000 placed upon the securities stolen is not exaggerated.

Had Money in Hencoop

After the arrest of H. A. Reed Mrs. Daly got busy. She told the officers she took $20,000 in bills out of the cache and buried them under a fence. The officers came to the house and Mrs. Daly showed them the three bushels of bills hidden out in the chicken house. She also told them about Lieut. Collins and his $100,000. She denied that her husband had anything to do with the robbery.

"Sunday morning I saw Reed with the money," she said. "It filled the top of a table. I told him to put it away. He hid it out in the chicken house Poffenbarger, who said he got only $40 came to the house Sunday morning and got $10,000. He took it away with him. I heard the men say they burned everything but the actual cash. Mrs. Daly is not under arrest, but she is under surveillance.

Eight of the missing mail sacks have been recovered. Two are still missing. Seven of the sacks were empty. One of those had been dropped by the robbers during the robbery.

With the certainty that Collins is the only man connected with the robbery who has not been arrested postal inspectors can now see the end of their work except for loot which has not been recovered.

GO AND SEE THEM

BIG FOOTBALL GAME THANKSGIVING

Bedford ties Bellwood 12-12

On Saturday the B. H. S. football team journeyed to Bellwood where they played the strong Bellwood Junior team in a very exciting and interesting game, the hardest fought game of the season.

The game was played on a very muddy and slippery field which slowed up both teams considerably. However, the Bedford team came to bringing back victory. The fact that the ball was so wet and slippery was all that prevented Bedford from winning as open field playing is Bedford's specialty. The game was featured by the strong defensive playing of every man on the team.

The game opened with spectacular playing by the Bellwood team. A long forward pass of about forty yards gave them the first score. In the second quarter the Bedford team made a similar play netting them a touchdown and tying the score. Bellwood started the second half with fast playing and by a succession of line plunges and end runs they carried the ball across the goal line in spite of the valiant defensive work of our players. Bedford came within scoring distance in the third quarter but lost the ball through an intercepted forward pass. In the final quarter our team rushed the ball by straight football tactics across the goal for the tying score.

Every attempt at goal failed as the ball was wet and heavy and made accurate kicking impossible. Bedford made a last attempt in the final quarter to break the tie in an attempt at a field goal from the forty yard line but the ball fell short by about three yards.

An unfortunate accident occurred when Raymond Little, within the last two minutes of play was hit on the jaw by the knee of an opposing player with such force that it fractured the jaw bone. The injury was well taken care of, and aside from an inconvenience he will have to endure for about ten days he will be the same as before the game. Not any of his teeth are loose.

Perhaps the biggest football game that has ever been played here will be played on Thanksgiving when the Bedford team will buck the Roaring Springs boys. The management is preparing for a big day. One of the features of the day will be the organized cheering by the students. The spirit in a mass meetings is running high and a large variety of yells and songs will be ready to cheer our team to victory.

Susan Harriett McMillen

The subject of this obituary was formerly Miss Susan Harriett Brode daughter of David Elizabeth Brode and was born in Sherman Valley, Bedford County, Pa. Feb. 12, 1849 and died at her home in New Paris, Nov. 16, 1920, from heart disease, aged 71 years, 9 months and 4 days. She was an invalid for several years, but bore it patiently. On Dec. 20, 1876 she married George Myles McMillen. She is survived by her husband and two sons Geo. E. McMillen of New Paris and Forest H. McMillen of Pittsburgh and one grandson, Arthur B. McMillen of New Paris; also two brothers George B. Brode of Philadelphia and Charles D. Brode of Bedford, and two sisters, Mrs. Margeraet C. Knapp of Glenshaw, Pa., and Elizabeth, Mrs. Alexander Grove of Graceville, Pa.

In her early days she belonged to Lutheran church at Bedford but later with her husband became a member of the Presbyterian church at Schellsburg.

Her passing from our midst will be noticed in many ways. We will miss her presence, her silent teachings, her cheerful disposition and her faith to home and neighbors.

Funeral services were conducted at the home on Friday afternoon by the Rev. B. V. Riddle of Everett assisted by the Rev. J. Winwood of New Paris. Interment in cemetery at Schellsburg. The family desire to thank neighbors and friends for their kindness during sickness and death of their mother.

Quaker to return to the colony; and not until 1785 with the powerful leadership of Thomas Jefferson, did this state pass its law not to interfere in religious matters. The Huguenots the Carolinas and Georgia, at first withheld citizenship from freedom of religion from Catholics. In view of these facts, it might seem to us of this state more reasonable to give to its settlers the greater credit. But there is enough glory for us all. And this is the Pilgrim Father's year; and their unique glory consists in their undertaking to found a country where church and state should be separate, sixty years before Penn's attempt. And if, conscious of their weakness and in fear of losing that liberty in this their new home, they gave assent to their Puritan neighbors to deny to others for a while the same rights and privileges they sought for themselves, we owe and to their Puritan neighbors eternal gratitude for having undertaken, in that early day, a midst such discouraging circumstances and unforeseen dangers to found a new nation when, by the help of the settlers of other colonies, gave civil and religious liberty a new, and let us hope, a permanent home.

Man was created with a social instinct, and as a result we have the home, or family. When these had multiplied, some rules to govern their relation were found necessary, and hence the state came into being. The human race also has a religious instinct, and to satisfy this the church arose. These three fundamental institutions of the race owe to each other certain rights and duties. What are these? That is the great question of the ages, ever being solved, and never yet fully settled. Is any one superior to the other? What do they owe each other? In the times of Abraham, the headship of all three was apparently the oldest man in the tribe, or clan. With Moses there came a division, he retaining the head of the state, Aaron assuming the head of the church, though the two institutions were so closely related that their government is called a theocracy—a God-government, a church-state. This combination plan endured for fifteen centuries, until the destruction of Jerusalem the temple, and the dispersion of the Jews from their home, and was apparently successful. Among the Greeks, we find Socrates put to death by the state for introducing a new religion. The Roman government put the early Christians to death for the same reason. In both these cases, the state was ruling the church. Jesus of Nazareth was appealed to, and in answer gave a principle, "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's. But governments differ as to the share or part of each. The early Christians refused to worship the Roman gods but submitted to death at the hands of the state for their own religion. To some extent this may seem like confession on their part that the state may rule the church in putting down heresy and preventing schisms. This relation of the state over religion is one of the three possible ones which may exist between these two institutions.

When the Roman emperor Constantine the Great, was converted, he issued in 313 A. D. the Milan Decree which proclaimed freedom to both Christianity and heathenism. This was a difficult idea, church and state to let each other alone. Soon how- ever laws were passed by the Empire which aimed to suppress heathenism; a return of the first idea; and soon the wonderful temples of Egypt no longer echoed to the voices of their priests; the magnificent temple city of Baalbec was closed to the worship of Apollo the Parthenon of Athens lost its mammoth statue of Athena, and the Pantheon of Rome.

"Simple, erect, severe, austere, sublime—Shrine of all saints and temple of all gods. From Jove to Jesus." And so the Roman state gradually acquired the ascendancy; and the teaching of Augustine (354-430) that it was the duty of a people to adopt the religion of their ruler was accepted and held sway until the beginning of the ninth century. In the year 800, the second possible relation was tried again, accepted by Emperor Charlemagne, and Pope Leo III. These men, as the heads of the state and the church, conceded each the other to be supreme in his own sphere, but under obligation to help each other. This theory had indifferent support until Gregory VII, made pope in 1073, boldly asserted the third possible relation, viz., that the church should rule the state. He adopted a papal crown of three stories, the style still used, and claimed the right to rule the earth, as well as hell and heaven. The emperors, and the kings of Germany and France opposed this theory with varying success until the Reformation, and the rise of the Protestants.

Protestantism may be said to date from 1520, the year that Luther was excommunicated by the pope. He was henceforth no priest in the church, trying to reform it, but a Bible teacher and preacher outside of it. He condemned the third theory above stated teaching that in temporal matters the state is over the church, and urged the German nobles to throw off the yoke of popedom.

The first and more generally accepted view that the people of a country should adopt the religion of its ruler was favorable to Luther and Protestants elsewhere. For although Luther and his followers were condemned to death at the Diet of Worms which was composed of both state and church delegates, Luther's own ruler the king of Saxony, had adopted Protestantism, and could thus protect Luther from arrest at home, and he didn't allow him to go outside of his kingdom. The other Lutheran rulers defied the pope by refusing to hand over their Lutheran people; and the person whose authority they did acknowledge, namely the Emperor of Western Europe, was afraid during Luther's lifetime to start a war of Catholicism against Protestantism. Hence Protestantism got a start. But Luther saw before his death, which occurred in 1546, that there would soon be an appeal to arms, an effort by the pope through the governments to root out the new faith of a former part of the Church. And in Germany, war broke out that same year. It ended in 1555. The terms of the treaty acknowledged that the religion of the ruler should be accepted by those ruled. If unwilling to submit any person should have the privilege to move out into a place where his choice of religion corresponded to that of the country leaving back all his property, however. If a bishop became Lutheran, he must quit his place, leave all his property, church buildings and incomes with the Catholics. This explains why in Germany today, even in Protestant communities, many of those great cathedrals of the middle age are yet in Catholic hands. Lutherans were not to be disturbed anywhere.

This was a great victory for the Lutherans, apparently. The Emperor, however, refused to agree to this treaty. And no other Protestants of Germany had any rights, except that granted them by their local ruler, viz., to be Reformed or Dunkard, or whatever he might chance to be. So it was seen that this compromise could not last long. France went her own way. In 1545 she finally destroyed the Waldenses. In 1572, she tried to massacre all the Huguenots. About 100,000 fell on St. Bartholomew's Day. For a century (1598-1685) she granted freedom of worship, then again began to persecute. A few French Protestants now fled to America, and many more to Alsace-Lorraine, then part of a German Protestant kingdom, known as the Palatinate. Here the rule that the religion of the ruler should be the religion of the ruled was working untold hardship. The people had to be Catholic till 1546, and then became Lutheran, then German Reformed, then Catholic again—four changes in sixty years.

Again in 1690, a Catholic prince became ruler, succeeding a Protestant, and began to force all to adopt his religion. In addition to this, the French king, Louis XIV, now laid claim to all this Rhine country and sent thither an army of 50,000 to conquer it. It is estimated that 100,000 people were murdered. Traces of the ruthless hands of the soldiers is seen by the traveler on the Rhine to day in the storied ruins of great castles which seem to defy both war and time, though they tell of the ravages of both. In 1707, the invasion was repeated. And then began that great exodus of German Lutherans and German Reformed down the Rhine to Holland, thence to New York, via London, where in the Hudson and Mohawk Valleys they founded towns naming them in fond memory of those from which they came; and soon after larger numbers, direct from Holland to Philadelphia. Here, Penn assured them, the government of this colony would grant them entire freedom of worship. And his promise has been kept these two centuries since.

But the Pilgrim Fathers had found freedom in Holland an hundred years before the poor Germans fled down the Rhine to it. To this kingdom all Protestantism owes a great debt.

The second war in Germany lasted from 1618 to 1648. The emperor was finally defeated, and he and his Catholic princes were forced to grant in the peace treaty some new concessions. Both Lutheran and Reformed were now granted liberty in faith and conscience in Germany; and Holland and Switzerland were permitted to become independent of the Western Empire. The emperor had been king of Netherlands and his attempts to hold it to the Catholic party were almost unparalleled in cruelty and destruction. But the northern countries won independence finally in 1609, and organized Holland, a new nation, Protestant. The southern countries finally submitted and became Catholic. Belgium, William of Orange was the great leader of the north. He was Dutch Reformed but before his murder in 1584, he had announced his belief in the principle of Constantine of the freedom of the conscience and that no person should be persecuted by the state for his religion. Holland became thus the first European nation to adopt that theory and stand by it and a heaven a refuge for the persecuted of every land. This gives to Holland a glory on the page of history, all her own. And to this country in the year 1608 came a band of English Protestants, driven out of England by the Protestant king, James I. Who were these Pilgrims? And what was their faith for which they were exiled?

Luther's writings early found their way into England. The king, Henry VIII, wrote an answer to one of them and received from the pope as reward the title "Defender of the Faith", still born by the English rulers. But his Queen Catharine bore no sons as heirs to the throne. The pope was appealed to for a divorce, which was refused. Henry himself then assumed the headship of the Church in England, which retained its bishops and much of its former methods of worship. Under the rule of his son, Edward VI (1547-1553), Protestantism of a Lutheran type spread rapidly. His half-sister, "Bloody Mary," daughter of Catharine, was Catholic; and during her brief reign (1553 to 1558) she endeavored to restore her faith. Hundreds of Protestant leaders now fled to Europe and especially to Calvin in Switzerland, who lived until 1564.

When Elizabeth, of Lutheran faith, ascended the English throne, they were called back, and they now endeavored to introduce more of Calvin's ideas of church government and worship, which means the putting away many of the things which the English church had still retained, but considered by these returning exiles to savor too much of the former Catholic worship. In other words, they set about to purify the church, which attempt gave them the name Puritan.

Among other things, they objected to the use of the sign of the cross, written prayers, clerical vestments, alters, candles, crucifix, sponsors in baptism, confirmation, kneeling to receive the sacrament, bowing the head at the name of Jesus, of bells, stained glass windows and organs, the observation of festival days, and the retention of bishops.

Luther was of a more artistic and emotional temperament than Calvin and permitted to his followers, in contrast to the Swiss reformer, the retention of all such customs of the Catholic church which did not appear to conflict with Bible teaching or endanger true worship, and nearly all the above customs can be found in use among Lutherans somewhere yet today. The Puritans naturally angered Elizabeth and she had a law passed in 1566 which compelled all to worship according to her ideas, on penalty of fines and imprisonment, and all pastors to be ordained by a bishop. In consequence, the milder of the Puritan party of the church in time withdrew and formed the Presbyterian church; so called because it is governed by elders; and the extreme ones of the Puritan party, known in England as Separatists, because they withdrew from the English church; as Congregationalists, because they held that all power of the church to rule was within each congregation; as Independents, because they claimed that the church was independent of the state and therefore, neither one had the right to rule the other; and one little group of them as Pilgrims, because they wandered first to Holland and then to America. This party of the Puritans were non-conformists and independent from the time of their origin. Others of the Puritans adopted adult baptism by immersion as the only proper method, and are known here and in England as Baptists.

The mother English church in distinction from these children and in part to testify to her belief in the necessity of bishops to constitute a true apostolic church took the name of the Episcopal church. Within its body there grew again a preference for the part of many for the Puritan simplicity, and in 1740, under the Wesley's another child was born, known as the Methodist Episcopal church holding with most Protestants that bishops and elders are the same office in the New Testament churches and hence not necessary for the existence of a true church. They preserved the office only for its practical value as a superintendency over a group of congregations.

Thus we have seen in this imperfect sketch that many nations and religious bodies, through many centuries of time had a share in bringing about the religious freedom we enjoy today. But among them all a unique place of honor still belongs to the colony of Plymouth. First, because they chose exile; then, braved life on the wild New England shore, for the privilege of unmoled worship. Second, because, though they were annoyed here by newcomers of different faiths, they never denied freedom of conscience to any one as long as they were independent of the other Massachusetts colonies; and in the observance of this principle and practice in America, they had no imitators until the settlement of Philadelphia, two generations later. And the truth these Pilgrims taught spread here and convicted, until in our Constitution it became embodied as the first amendment. May it never be repealed.

For this final victory, "Be thankful unto Him and bless His name."

And let us pray that the rivers of human blood which have been shed that this might become the law of all nations shall not have been shed in vain.

If there are among us today those who hold either of the other theories, viz., that the state should rule in the religious affairs of men, or that the church should dictate to the state, may they before attempting to impose either view upon those who have rejected them, trace this river until they find that it was fed from the opened wounds of men and nations who heretofore tried to impose them as well as from those who opposed them. May all such come to realize the leanness length and breadth and depth of this river and turn away from its valley of death. May all men come to see and acknowledge the truth as set forth by that prince of persecutors, Paul, of the early church who later so remorsefully repented of it all, that prophecies fail, tongues cease, and knowledge vanish away; but that three things abide—faith; and, above it, reaches hope; and highest above it reaches, of death, the heaven-reaching mountain of charity; and that "charity thinketh no evil," and "rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth." And shall not our prayer today be that God will stir up all nations which enjoy similar freedom with ourselves that He shall raise up a Christian voice that shall save today our brethren in the Bible lands from the madness of the Mohammedans, the members of the race of Jesus of Nazareth from their enemies and the oppressed in body or soul wherever they may be found. And let us add to our thanksgiving and prayer today a dedication of ourselves for tomorrow to bring about this end; and evermore pray, with one of yesterday, in hope and faith and love the desire of every true American—

"Sail on, O Union, strong and great: Humanity with all its fears."

With all its hopes of future years, Is hanging breathless on thy fate!"

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

During all the years the Ford Model T. One Ton Truck has been on the market, we have never had one complaint of rear axle trouble. We have had no complaints of motor trouble. As the motor and the rear axle are the vital fundamentals in a motor truck, we have the right to conclude that the Ford One Ton Truck has not only met the demands for business, but has done so in a satisfactory and economic way. There is no other evidence so convincing as that which comes from long practical experience. Ford One Ton Trucks are serving along all industrial and commercial lines. You will find them everywhere. If these statements were not facts, the demand for the Ford One Ton Truck would not be as large as it is, because the people are not buying trucks which do not give service. Coupled with the dependability of the Ford One Ton Truck in all classes of usage, comes the economy in operation and maintenance. On the farm, in factory delivery, for the merchant, manufacturer, and contractor, in these days of modern business methods, this worm-drive One Ton Ford Truck has become an actual necessity. I personally pay very careful attention to the proper fitting of a nose piece or bridge. I see that it has the exact shape and style to fit snugly to the one particular point on the crest of the nose, so the pupil of the eye can exactly conform with the center or middle of the lens, and the object will then be deposited at the proper place on the Retina, and thereby your error in Refraction will be corrected, and you will have a perfect vision or sight, and a pair of glasses that will harmonize with your face. The sight is so often interfered with by disease of the Vital organs, "Creeping disease," of slow progress, the nerves which enter into the eyes, the upper and lower lids, which control the muscular action, very often become impaired by disease, need to be recognized and properly treated. All these are carefully looked after by me with the Ophthalmoscope, and by Urinary analysis, when necessary, and my simple and most effective method of examining the Eye for Glasses.

WHAT WILL YOU DO ABOUT THESE FACTS?

Tuberculosis is taking a terrible toll in Pennsylvania every day. What are you going to do about these facts?

In 1919, 10,253 persons were killed in Pennsylvania by tuberculosis—a preventable disease.

That means 28 persons succumbed to the White Plague every day, or one an hour.

For every death from tuberculosis in your community there are from 10 to 15 living cases.

In the schools of Pennsylvania 75 per cent to 80 per cent of all the children have physical defects.

Five per cent, or 88,750, of all the school children in Pennsylvania have tuberculosis.

Christmas Seal Sale Begins Nov. 29.

The Christmas Seal is an appeal to you by your community for your community.

The Christmas Seal Sale is conducted by your local tuberculosis committee for the benefit of your own community.

CHRISTMAS SEALS

The Tuberculosis Christmas Seal,
as known in America, was first sold in 1908.

The Seal is a little sticker placed on letters and packages during the month before Christmas and over the holidays.

Christmas Seals cannot be used as postage.

Seals sell for one cent each.

More than three-fourths of the money raised by your tuberculosis committee from Seals and Health
Bonds remains to fight tuberculosis and improve the health of your community.

The sale of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals and Health Bonds begins
November 29.

GRO-ALL

FERTILIZERS

With Your Wheat

And Increase Stooling

Stooling is governed principally by the fertility of the soil. The greater the number of stalks growing from one crown, the greater the yield.

Insure maximum Stooling by a thorough preparation of the seed bed and a liberal use of Gro-All Grain and Grass Grower 2-12-2 the ideal fertilizer for fall seeding.

GRO-ALL fertilizers are carefully formulated with a full knowledge of crop requirements. They are manufactured in four modern and complete plants by men who realize and appreciate the importance of having fertilizer in perfect condition ready for the drill.

Order your supply of GRO-ALL fertilizers early. Shipments are being delayed owing to car shortage. An immediate order assures certain delivery.

SANTA CLAUS AND THE CHILDREN'S SEAL

Bright Little Sticker For Mail
Means Much to the Boys and Girls.

Santa Claus and a child appear on the Christmas Seal this year.

Santa is bringing health for children. The child pictured is so happy he is getting the great gift of health that he has perched himself on Santa's shoulders and is holding aloft the double barred cross, which is the emblem of hope used by tuberculosis workers.

The mission of the little sticker is just what the picture on it this year signifies. The salvation of the child and Santa—Happy New Year—is borne out through the work done with the money realized from the sale of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals.

The Tuberculosis committee covering a community retains over three-fourths of the money it realizes from the Seal sale for carrying on the fight against tuberculosis and the improvement of the public health," said George Pinchot, chairman of the State Seal Committee. "One of the important things being done by these committees is the health work among children, and especially in the schools.

"If we teach children better habits and hygiene they will grow up much healthier and tuberculosis will be materially lessened.

"Every Christmas Seal used means better health for children of your community."

Martin V. Zeth

Martin Van Buren Zeth, the last member of one of Bedford county's most prominent pioneer families died Thursday morning at 7.15 o'clock at his home at Hopewell, Bedford county, where he has been a leading citizen since 1869. Mr. Zeth was born at Claysburg on January 10, 1833 and received his early training in the schools to the county. When a young man, he went to Lemon's Forge now Hopewell, where he took charge of the store for the King Iron Company. The following year he was united in marriage with Miss Sarah Porter who died about ten years ago.

After a time he moved to Roaring Spring where he became head book-keeper for Dr. Peter Shoenberger the old Pennsylvania iron master. In 1869, he returned to Hopewell as head book-keeper for Low-Eichelberger & Co., and remained in their employ until 1873 when he engaged in the general merchandise business, which he continued until the time of his death. He is survived by two sons and two daughters, Mrs. John and Frank M. Zeth and Mrs. R. E. Madden, all of Hopewell. Funeral services were conducted at the home on Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock following which the body was taken to Everett on a special train where burial was made.

Mr. Zeth was prominent in business circles in his community and his keen business instinct was a guarantee of success and his advice in all matters of business was eagerly sought by hundreds of people who learned to know and appreciate his ability and sound judgment. He was the oldest member of Mt. Moriah Lodge F. & A. M. many of the members attending the funeral.

TIRED AND WORN-OUT

Seranton, Pa.:—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best builder of the nervous system that I have ever taken; it has never failed to give good results. Several times in recent years I have become all run-down in health due to overwork and worry. I would get very nervous, would suffer with indigestion, could not sleep and would have a tired and worn-out feeling, and each time I was restored to health by taking the "Favorite Prescription." I do not know what I would have done without it. "Favorite Prescription" has done me a world of good and I feel safe in recommending it to others who suffer. I also take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets and find them fine as a laxative."—MRS. CAROLINE BURKLEY, 209 Prospect Ave.

Favorite Prescription is a medicine that's made especially to build up women's strength and to cure women's ailments—an invigorating, restorative tonic, soothing cordial and bracing nerve; purely vegetable, non-alcoholic, and perfectly harmless. All druggists or send 19c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial package of Favorite Prescription Tablets.

Phillis Virginia Coplin

On November 14, 1920, Phillis Virginia daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blair Coplin was taken by death at the age of 9 months and 19 days by meningitis. It was a sufferer for many days. Funeral services were conducted at the home in New Paris by the Rev. J. Winwood. Its little form now rests in the Reformed cemetery at Fishertown.

James H. Conlin

BIRTHDAY PARTY

CHARTER NOTICE

James H. Conlin, a well known Monroe Township, resident died at the home of his brother-in-law, David Fouse, of Altoona, about 3:00 o'clock Thursday morning, after an illness of six weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Conlin had gone to Altoona about seven weeks ago to visit relatives and Mr. Conlin was taken ill and was unable to return to his home his death being due to Bright's disease. Several years ago he suffered a paralytic stroke from which he had never fully recovered. Mr. Conlin followed the occupation of a farmer and was one of the leading citizens of his township. He was a faithful member of Bethel Reformed church, and always took an active part in church and Sunday School work.

James H. Conlin was a son of James and Mary Chamberlain Conlin and was born at Piney Creek, Blair County, about 66 years ago. He was united in marriage with Adeline Nycum, who survives, with the following children: Janet and Harry at home, and Ezra and Wilmer Conlin, of Monroe Township. He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Rebecca Ritchey, of Henrietta, and two brothers, Fernando Conlin of Altoona, and Silas Conlin of Saxton. Funeral was held Monday afternoon at one o'clock.

Some women won't allow their husbands to have a cuspidor in the house and yet they get howling mad because he spits tobacco juice on the floor.

A birthday party was given on Thursday evening November 18 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Wentz in honor of their daughter Miss Cora. The party was well attended by the young people. There was plenty of music and various games were played. Miss Cora received many nice presents. Following is a list of the persons present:

Marie Feathers, Carrie Griffith, Earl Thomas, Walter Moore, Frank Barefoot, Carl Hillegass, Clarence Miller, Harry Rock, Robert Blackburn, Charles Bisel, Clyde Wentz, Clair Blackburn, John Burkett, Ralph Fetter, Ira Wentz, Walter Ickes, Bruce Feather, Clyde Clair, William Shoenthal, Melvin Saylor, Edward Crissman, Robert McQuown, Kline Shaffer, Boswell Smith, Palmer Beckley, Guy Miller, Howard Barefoot, Glenn Beckley, Charles McCoy, Alvin Rouser, Homer Blackburn, Lloyd Mickle, Joe Young, Olive Mickle, Florence Bloom, Roy Hock, Grace Barefoot, Margaret Crissman, Mary Thomas, Dorothy Bowser, Lulu Wentz, Mayme Hiner, Ruth Hinton, Katherine Seese, Cora Wentz, Alda Stuckey, Amanda Mickle, Rhine Nunemaker, Mae Ickes, Ida Slack, Fern Nunemaker, Cleo Burkett, Mable Sauter, Mary Stockley, Grace Burkett, Jane Miller, Beatrice Smith, Helen Blackburn, Olive Wentz, Lucile Feather, Margaret Smith, Alice Rock, Viola Griffith, Edna Mickle, Martha Nichol and Venie Wentz.

Notice is hereby given that an application will be made to the Governor of Pennsylvania, on Monday, the 20th day of December, 1920, by C. F. Schipper, F. G. Schipper, B. E. Cutchall and others, under the Act of Assembly, entitled, "An Act to provide for the incorporation and regulation of certain corporations," approved April 29, 1874, and the supplements thereto, for an intended corporation to be called, "Barnett Supply Company," the character and objects of which are: The conducting of a general merchandise business, in buying, selling and dealing in boots, shoes, queen's-wear, clothing, furnishings, dry-goods, groceries, hardware, stoves, and such other goods, wares, produce and merchandise as are bought, sold and dealt in, in what is known as a "General Merchandising Store." Also, the buying and selling of powder, dynamite, oils, etc.

Nov. 26, Dec 3, and 10.
